

Eric Wittenstein

eric.wittenstein@gmail.com | (404) 354-1399 | linkedin.com/in/ericwittenstein

Education

Georgia Tech University, Coding Bootcamp, 2022

Full-Stack Web Development Certification

Georgia State University, College of Education and Human Development, 2016 - 2019

Completed 20 hours towards M.A.T., Social Studies Education (courses and practicum)

University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 2010 - 2014

B.A., Peace War and Defense

Free University of Berlin (Freie Universität Berlin), Study Abroad 2013

Cold War History, German Language

Skills & Traits

HTML & CSS	JavaScript	GitHub
Object-Oriented Programming	NodeJS	ExpressJS
MySQL / Sequelize	MongoDB	React
German, High Proficiency

Experience

Printer | Diazo Specialty Blueprint

October 2018 – June 2022

- Printing associate specializing in large-format printing, digital scanning and repair of documents for architects, engineers, designers, decorators, contractors, and owners
- AutoCAD conversion and minor modification, PDF handling and manipulation
- Coordinate front-counter sales & customer service, as well as back-house production and delivery/courier services
- Manage inventory sections, place orders, and ensure accurate and timely completion of projects under various long-term and short-notice/emergency deadlines

World History Teacher | DeKalb County School District

August 2016 – August 2018

- General Education Teacher for World History at Cross Keys High School, a Title I school in Brookhaven, GA.
- Independent and Collaborative lesson planning, assessment development, data analysis, and culturally-responsive classroom management and communication
- Provide diversified and differentiated instruction for students from a wide variety of social, economic, political, ethnic, linguistic, and cultural backgrounds
- Develop and implement a broad-spectrum curriculum for World History, utilizing a variety of instructional techniques, strategies, and methods to drive content mastery
- Educate students in current events, life skills, resume development, technological literacy, politics, language, research methods, and personal / professional development, and help ensure students are equipped with the tools they need to not only succeed in the classroom but in the larger 21st Century world as well